MOZOVI COMMUNITY WATER PROJECT

Mozovi, Dominican Republic

Thank you for joining Food For The Poor's quest to bring life-saving water to the poorest of the poor. Your generous support, in memory of Charles Ankenbruck, has helped us to provide the people of Mozovi and its surrounding communities with a clean, dependable water supply.

The Dominican Republic, which shares the island of Hispaniola with Haiti, has a rich history. Founded in 1492 by Christopher Columbus, it is home to the first university and the first cathedral in the New World. Mozovi is located in a rural area 35 miles from the city of Puerto Plata. Nearly 65% of the community is unemployed and most residents rely on agriculture for their sustenance. The people in this area were in dire need of safe and sanitary water. A majority of them suffer from skin diseases and infections caused by using water from a nearby river that is also used by animals for bathing and waste elimination.

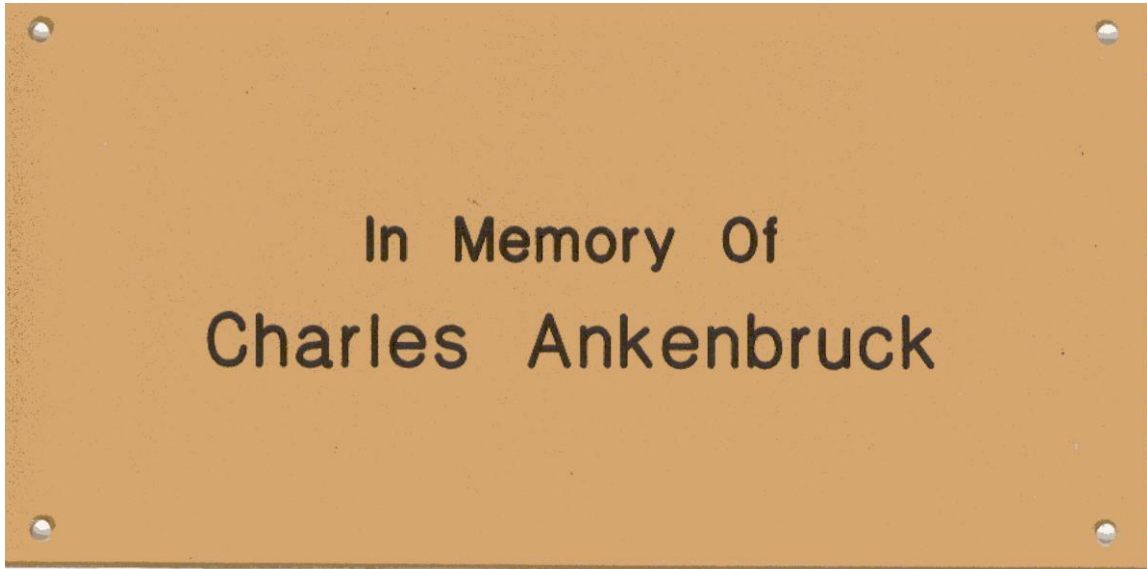

Your gift funded the construction of an aqueduct with a 10,000-gallon water retention tank, the installation of a submersible water pump with generator, the construction of a structure to house the equipment, and the installation of a fence to protect the system.

Thanks to your generosity, Mr. & Mrs. Sutter, this water project is benefiting more than 10,000 people in Mozovi and its surrounding communities.

Father Ramon Ubiera writes: “Thank you so much for this wonderful gift to our community in Mozovi. It is an incredible gift for us. Without [you], this project would not have been possible. We had been waiting a long time for this.”
